ANNUAL REPORT

2020-21 SEASON

OPENING REMARKS FROM OUR

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR AND BOARD PRESIDENT

I am humbled by the passion, dedication, and flexibility of the TCP band members, staff, and community who have supported them and the great music they made this past year. Generous donors allowed TCP to thrive despite the major challenges, and to be ready to do great things moving forward. Thank you for trusting and believing in us. We are pleased to present the exciting and unexpected musical experiences that inspired and educated audiences and students around the world this past year.

David Skidmore,
Executive Director

I don't think I will ever forget the feeling I had the last time the entire ensemble and staff shared the table in our studio and office on the North Side of Chicago on March 12, 2020. There was a great deal of fear and uncertainty already, and those feelings would only grow in the coming weeks. But the one thing I knew without a doubt was that we could not hope for a better team than ours, nor better leadership than our Board of Directors, nor a better and more dedicated following of supporters and fans to see us through an absolutely unprecedented time of challenge and uncertainty for the performing arts community, and indeed for the entire world. This has been proven time and again in the past eighteen months. Third Coast Percussion has not only survived the COVID-19 pandemic, we are emerging on the other side stronger than ever, with new projects, new recordings, new ways of reaching audiences and students around the world, and a renewed commitment to equity, diversity, and inclusion in all that we do. I am indescribably proud of all that we have been able to accomplish and all that lies ahead of us. On behalf of everyone in the TCP family, thank you, and we cannot wait to see you at a live concert very soon.

YEAR IN REVIEW

EMBRACING THE POWER OF TECHNOLOGY

In March 2020, Third Coast Percussion successfully met the immense challenge presented by the sudden halt of live, in-person concerts by fully embracing the power of technology. Within one week of the pandemic-induced shutdown and subsequent loss of the remaining 2019/20 touring season, the ensemble was livestreaming free performances from its rehearsal studio in Chicago. By repurposing existing HD video and audio equipment and drawing upon the talent and agility of the entire team, TCP quickly set the standard for high-quality, engaging digital concert experiences.

These early efforts evolved into a larger digital_TCP initiative that delivers the best of Third Coast Percussion's performance and educational programming directly to audiences anywhere in the world. Through a blend of live and prerecorded digital presentations, TCP has been featured in fifty-three concert performances and ninety educational programs, and has given nine world premieres. Over 67,000 viewers from twenty-five countries on six continents have benefited from these programs. Even as the ensemble returns to live performances and a robust touring schedule, technology will continue to play a major role in the future of the organization. The ability to collaborate with artistic partners remotely, share TCP's newest projects with fans across the globe, and reach far more K-12 and university students than ever before enables the ensemble to fulfill its mission on a scale never previously imagined.

GRAMMY NOMINATIONS & ALBUM RELEASES

CONTINUING THE MOMENTUM

Third Coast Percussion teamed up with influential, genre-defying, multi-instrumentalist, record producer, songwriter, singer, and composer Devonté Hynes (aka Blood Orange) for an album of imaginative, evocative instrumental music originally created as the live soundtrack for choreography by the adventurous Hubbard Street Dance Chicago. This collaborative album received GRAMMY® Award nominations in two categories, and, for TCP, represents the future of classical music: deepening the collaborative process and removing the strict barriers between composers and performers.

Archetypes

Third Coast Percussion joined celebrated guitarist Sérgio Assad and vibrant composer and performer Clarice Assad

Third Coast Percussion joined celebrated guitarist Sérgio Assad and vibrant composer and performer Clarice Assad for a new album of collaboratively composed works, featuring twelve musical portraits of timeless character types that appear in stories, legends, and myths throughout the world.

Archetypes are ancient, universal patterns of human behavior that are found in storytelling, mythology, and our daily interactions with one another. With all that separates us – distances that are geographic, ideological, cultural, temporal – the commonalities that transcend these barriers can offer a profound sense of comfort and optimism.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

INSPIRING THROUGH CREATIVITY & COLLABORATION

As part of digital_TCP, the ensemble offered livestreamed and licensable prerecorded versions of all its education programs, sharing creativity, collaboration, and inspiration with students from kindergarten through graduate school. The ensemble created a new modular version of its popular all-ages program, “Think Outside the Drum,” which was licensed by seven institutions and viewed by 11,000 students across the country. TCP led thirty-seven masterclasses and clinics with twenty-two colleges and universities, and completed its second year as Ensemble-in-Residence at Denison University, interacting with students from several academic disciplines and the greater Granville, Ohio, community through virtual visits.

Remaining invested in music education in Chicago, TCP continued its “Embark” program in cooperation with the People’s Music School, leading virtual multiday workshops that teach creativity, critical thinking, and collaboration through music composition. In partnership with University of Notre Dame’s College of Engineering, TCP launched “Making Waves,” a STEM+Music program which can be led by other educators or teaching artists anywhere, without TCP present. In addition, TCP offered unique online experiences geared specifically toward families stuck at home together during the COVID-19 crisis. The ensemble helped curate, judge, and host an all-ages virtual “Family Talent Show” through the Hancher Auditorium at the University of Iowa, and developed a virtual “Sonic Scavenger Hunt” for youngsters and their parents through the Meany Center at the University of Washington.

DIVERSITY, EQUITY, & INCLUSION

UNIFIED IN OUR CREATIVITY & CURIOSITY

In the sixteen years since Third Coast Percussion was formed, we have found there is an audience for what we do that is unified in its creativity and curiosity—qualities that cut across the boundaries of gender, race, and class. In the past year, we have been taking a close look at how all of our activities can welcome this diverse audience, and how we can use our platform to elevate those who have not historically been welcome in the spaces we inhabit.

We have taken a close look at representation among the composers whose works we perform, and the collaborators and partners we work with. We have engaged consultant E.B. Smith of HC Smith, Ltd. to further our organization's development of antiracist practices. For the first time, tickets to our annual fundraisers (both online due to COVID-19) were "pay-what-you-can," and both fundraisers far exceeded our financial goals. The quality of our new projects, the strength of our organization, and the success of these fundraisers are all proof positive of the sustainability and vitality of this important work.

FINANCIAL SUMMARY

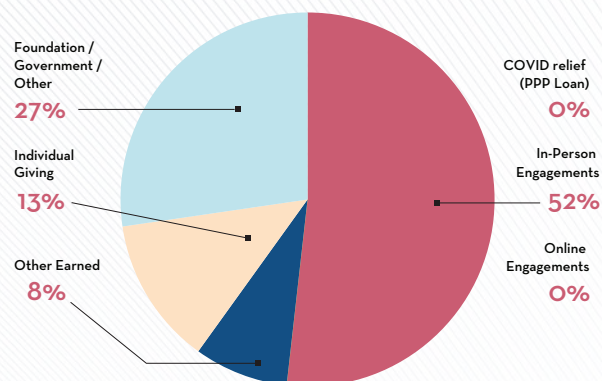

WEATHERING THE STORM

Third Coast Percussion's financial condition is very strong as we catapult forward into an exciting new season. It is a source of great pride for us that none of our employees experienced layoffs, furloughs, or cuts to pay or benefits during the pandemic, thanks to engaged audiences and generous supporters. We were able to replace some portion of the revenue we would have expected from live performances with a busy online schedule, while also eliminating most of our travel expenses. Funding from the government's Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) also helped TCP weather this storm. However, the most important factor in sustaining us through FY21 was a huge increase in support from individual donors, beginning in the spring of 2020. The generosity of our board, supporters, and fans across the world has been the lifeblood of our organization this year.

UPCOMING PROJECTS

EXPANDING THE CANON OF PERCUSSION REPERTOIRE

Third Coast Percussion is committed to expanding the canon of percussion ensemble repertoire by engaging with today's music creators in a highly collaborative composition process. Thanks to the financial stability of the organization, TCP has been able to move forward with several new artistic projects that will premiere and tour in upcoming seasons. New Zealand-based Gemma Peacocke is writing a new thirty-minute cycle for percussion and electronics set to premiere online in October 2021. New media artist Xuan is creating video art to accompany the music, resulting in a fully immersive experience for audiences. Hailed as "the 21st century's gatecrasher of new classical music" (NPR's Turning the Tables), Missy Mazzoli is composing her first-ever percussion quartet for Third Coast Percussion inspired by the theme of rituals. Flute/electronics duo Flutronix (Allison Loggins-Hull and Nathalie Joachim) is joining forces with Third Coast Percussion to create a modular, collaboratively composed piece for both ensembles with electronics.
